HALT GERMAN DRIVE

Violent Artillery Fire Inflicts Heavy Losses on Enemy—Eighty Prisoners and Machine Guns Taken.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
French and German troops have been engaged in heavy fighting on both sides of the Meuse in the Verdun sector. West of the river the French have gained the enemy position on a front of 1400 yards to a depth of 800
yards, while east of the river the Germans were unsuccessful in a strong attack on a six-mile front.
Sunday the Germans sent heavy forces against the French position. At Stenay, near Verdun, the Bois de Champs and near Hezonfaux the enemy entered the French line at various points. Violent artillery fire indicated heavy fighting in the sector and they were unable to hold on to the trenches they had gained.
The front east of the Meuse has been
the scene of much violent artillery
fighting during the last month.
The French success west of the river was made at Malen court west of Verdun. At the Cheppy wood immediately west of Malen court
the French position. Friday, General Foch's German trenches on a front
of 800 yards to a depth of 300 meters.
After destroying the position the French returned and took many prisoners and several machine guns.

Heavy Losses.
At the Meuse in the Champagne
sector German troops gained momentarily a footing in French position west of Vandœuvre but suffered heavily under a French counter attack which drove them back to their original position.

Fighting activity on the British front
has died down somewhat and the Germans for the moment have given up their strong raids on the Ypres-Arrass line. The artillery has been active but not intense. The airmen persist in their bombing raids against military targets and have accounted for twenty-three German machines.

On American Front.
On the American sector at Toul and Toulon there has been no change in the situation. American patrol parties are still visiting the enemy line and returning with valuable information.
On the Toul front the American artillery has been heavy. The German shelling bullets and troop work
over an area approximately six miles wide and twelve miles deep. East of Lunville also the artillery bombardment
has been heavy.

In Russia.
Having occupied Odessa and in Mentayev, important naval and grain
ports, the Germans in Southern Russia continue their drive northward
toward the Black Sea toward Kherson
and important commercial center and capital of the province of the same name. The All Russian congress of peasants at Moscow to be the Russian capital and is said that the government and all military aspect
have been removed from Petrograd.

To Ruse Army.
The Bolshevik leader, although he urged and obtained ratification of the German peace treaty, was said to have told his followers that the peace treaty was a trap and that the Germans are calling on the Soviet to form
a military organization with which to combat the Germans should their invasion continue further into the heart of Russia.

Washington, March 18.—Germany's threat of a great spring offensive on the western front no longer increases American military alertness. In his review today the war department
reaffirms the conclusion that the enemy
in spite of his vast preparation will not take the offensive. The department, however, adds nothing to
its previous statement that the German officers have expressed their
confidence in the face of official forecasts
to the contrary from both sides of the Atlantic.

Much of the statement is devoted to the activity of the American troops
now engaged on live separate fronts.
One of the sectors lying close to the Swiss border. The official communication, however, adds nothing to
its previous statement that the Ger-
man officers have expressed their
confidence in the face of official forecasts
to the contrary from both sides of the Atlantic.

Near Moscow.
London, March 18.—German troops
have occupied Kalush and Kono-
p (in the province of Tchernizov)
about 350 miles southwest of Moscow)
but were forced to retire from Oransk (in the province of Orel, 200 miles west of Moscow) toward the main base, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow
dated Saturday. Austro-German troops are moving on Voroshila and at the same time, and about 400 miles west of Moscow. Orders have been issued to evacuate Kharkov.

Prisoners Active.
Hardin, Manchuria, March 18.—Released German prisoners are co-operating with the Bolsheviks in Siberia
in the campaign against the forces of General Semenov, leader of the non-Bolshevik forces. A wounded soldier of General Semenov's command said that in a battle of March 1 they were fought by former German prisoners
attached to the Bolshevik forces.
It is estimated 200 German soldiers
were taken in the fighting.
General Semenov bayoneted an armed German in a hand-to-hand combat.

Tells the Truth.
Petrograd, March 18.—Maria Sir-onova, Bolshevik leader, in an appearance before the Petrograd Soviet of German peace terms means
they will lose their land and freedom.

Commune of Petrograd.
Washington, March 18.—Ambassador Francis today confirmed press dispatches that Leon Trotsky, former minister of Russia, had placed himself at the head of a Commune of Petrograd. The ambassador referred to the commune as a new name for the Bolsheviks in Petrograd. Trotsky
is now known as the commissary of the commune.

Factory Explosion
Near Paris Results
In Death Of Thirty

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, March 18.—The very violent explosion in a factory at La Cour-nouille, north of Paris, Friday last,
caused the death of 30 persons and the injury of a large number, mostly slightly. The cause of the explosion
has not yet been definitely determined. La Cournouille is seven kilometers from the cathedral of Notre Dame in the direction of St. Denis.
American Red Cross and army ambulances were among the first at the scene of the explosion. The large fleet of ambulances kept at the American hospital at Neuilly for emergency purposes started for the scene within a few minutes after the explosion with two men on each car. Officers of the hospital staff supervised the removal of the injured.

A number of wounded were carried away in motor trucks of the American army. Soldiers approached to within a few hundred yards of the burning building and carried the injured
across field to vehicles waiting to move the victims to hospitals in Paris
and the suburbs.

An American army officer dressed
the wound of a child cut by flying glass nearly a mile from the scene of the disaster. The child is one of several scores in a school in which every
window was shattered.

Firemen were unable to approach
the burning factory near the scene of the disaster. The child is one of several scores in a school in which every
window was shattered.

All the roofs and windows within a circumference of miles of the building were demolished. Buildings collapsed from the violence of the explosion. In every quarter of Paris windows were shattered and furniture
overturned.

Nearly 1,000 persons are shelterless
as a result of the damage to their homes.

ITALIANS LOAN BIG
SUMS TO GOVERNMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, March 18.—"A man must be either a fool or a traitor to refuse to subscribe to a war loan," declared
Prime Minister Orlando in connection with Italy's sixth loan. The government brought in about $500,000,000.
The nation needs the money to carry on the war and if there are enough fools
and traitors among us not to subscribe, then the government will simply take what it needs by force.

The result of the new loan, however, proved satisfactory and the extreme measures of unusual taxes will not have to be applied. War loans
have come to be quite a customary proceeding and the Italian public has each year made new subscriptions in response to the advertising campaigns
of the secretary of the treasury and the banks.

One of the features of the war loan
has been the franchise of the newspapers and particularly of Secretary of the Treasury Nitti regarding financial facts. "There's no use trying to fool the public regarding national finances," he said. "We need the money. We are paying nearly 6 per cent interest to get it. It's a good investment. The Italian government will always pay its debts. It's an inalienable fact that it does so. As far back as 1866, when it had to offer
8 and 10 per cent interest, it adopted
the policy of standing by its pledges,
and it has always done so."

Confidence in the Italian loans has been shown by the Americans living in Italy.
To the present time the war has cost Italy about $4,000,000,000, two-thirds of which money has been spent on the army or land forces and the other third on the navy. Of this $4,000,000,000, $1,500,000,000 have been raised by war loans, $500,000,000
by taxes, and about $2,000,000,000 by special treasury bonds placed principally in England and the United States for the purpose of paying for war purchases.

KAISER LOOKS FOR COMPLETE VICTORY

Amsterdam, March 17.—"I have strong hope that Field Marshal von Hindenburg will soon win for the Germans a victory on the Western front,"
read a message sent by Emperor William to the Pomeranian provincial council as quoted in the Lokal Anzei-ger of Berlin.

Marquette, Wis., March 18.—The funeral of former United States Senator Isaac Stephenson was held this afternoon, the body being laid to rest
in Forest Home cemetery. Rev. Dr.

which he reviewed the life history of the deceased. The body lay in state

dreds of citizens of Marquette and

BOYS WILL BE ASKED TO ENROLL IN RESERVE

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Chicago, March 18.—Every able-bodied boy in the United States is being called on today to offer his services to help him in his country
fight to make the world safe for democracy. Today marks the opening of the national enrollment week for the United States boys' working reserve.

Boys between the ages of 16 and 21
in good physical health are called on to enlist. After being enrolled they will be subject to the call of the country for the planting of crops this spring, for their harvest next fall, and for duties in shops and factories
which are turning products toward winning the war.

Thousands of boys have already enrolled in this service and are getting ready to go to farms and factories to take the places of the men who have donned the khaki to fight "over there."

The boys' reserve is being organized by the war emergency bureau
of the department of labor.

Around The State

Candidate for Mayor.
Neenah, Wis., March 18.—After refusing for several weeks to accept the nomination for mayor, Mayor C. B.
Clark has finally consented to become a candidate. If elected, it will be for the fourth consecutive time, a history
making sheet in local politics.

Bank Increases Capital.
Madison, Wis., March 18.—Commissioner of Banking A. E. Kuol on Saturday approved the amendments of the articles of incorporation of the state bank at Elkhorn to increase its capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000.

County Without Physician.
Florence, Wis., March 18.—The last physician remaining in Florence county, Dr. A. F. Lyon Campbell, is going to join the colors soon. He was ordered to Fort Riley, Kan., several weeks ago, but the call was delayed
so he could finish his work on the local draft board.

The county will be without a physician when Dr. Campbell leaves and a supply doctor will have to be provided temporarily by the medical section of the Wisconsin committee of national defense.

Municipal Piggery.
Manitowish, March 18.—A municipal piggery is the plan being considered by the city fathers here on the suggestion of the state agricultural department, which has figured out that every city of 1,000 population or more has enough garbage to fatten 50,000 hogs annually. This city according to that estimate, would be able to raise 150,000 pigs every year.

Students to Work on Farms.
Pond du Lac, March 18.—Thirty
students at the high school will complete their studies April 15 and will then offer their services as farm laborers for the remainder of the summer. The boys are attending special classes so that they will be able to obtain full credit for a year's school work.

DAVIES TO CONCLUDE
SPEAKING PROGRAM

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 18.—Joseph E. Davies will conclude his speaking campaign here tonight by an address
in the university gymnasium. Plans are being made to have this one of the most successful meetings of the campaign and the student clubs will probably turn out in a body.

James Thompson, the La Follette
republican candidate for United States senator, was expected here this afternoon to attend the campaign details. He is optimistic over the result.
Congressman J. L. Lenroot, Superior, republican candidate for United States senator, will speak in Eau Claire tonight and then go to Superior to vote. Dr. Charles McCarthy is campaigning in southern Wisconsin.

WILL PLAY ONLY AT NATIONAL MEETINGS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Great Lakes, Ill., March 18.—The band of the United States Naval Training station at Great Lakes will be available for meetings of national importance only in the future.

This has been determined by Captain William A. Moffet, commandant, and results from two causes. First,
the Great Lakes band have become so numerous it requires practically all of the time of one man in the commandant's office to handle this correspondence. Many of these latter requests are trivial in the extreme. One Chicago woman wanted the band to play
at a farewell party she was arranging
for her son who had joined the navy.
She wanted 100 pieces. In one day
this week 122 requests for the band
were received.

Captain Moffet has arranged to loan every member of the band, except the number required on the station, to the treasury department in the third liberty loan campaign. This means that all requests for the band,
if necessary, will be refused.

GERMANS WILL TAKE
AMERICAN PROPERTY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, March 18.—The Spanish
and Swiss Ambassadors at Berlin have been directed by the German foreign office to notify the American government that Germany will proceed with measures against American property
in Germany in the same proportion that action is taken against German property in the United States. Reuters
Amsterdam correspondent reports.

The condition imposed by Germany,
the Ambassador declared, threatened
the existence and independence of the country. The Ambassador, he declared,
will continue to advocate co-operation with the allies in the war on Germany.

Vote for Lenroot and Loyalty.

TO THE VOTERS:
In the Republican primary tomorrow we meet the enemy for the first time in this country. The votes that fall in the Republican primary tomorrow will be heard around the world. The result will cause rejoicing either at Berlin or with our boys at the front. This is the first great election since war was declared. America expects every citizen of Wisconsin to vote tomorrow, and to vote for loyalty. The issue at the Republican primary is America vs. La Follette. Lenroot stands for America; Thompson for—La Follette. We must meet the issue squarely. This is not a fair weather primary. This is war. It is the duty of every voter to get out, rain or shine, good roads or bad roads, and do the soldier's part, by voting for Lenroot and loyalty. Do not be a slacker by dodging the fight. Do not assume that we have an easy victory. It is a hard fight, we need every vote. Loyalty to America must win in Wisconsin tomorrow. We appeal to every loyal American, not only to cast his own vote, but to see that every other loyal American casts his vote in the Republican primaries. If you do this, we will win.

A. W. SANBORN,
Chairman of Lenroot Campaign Committee.

Holland Will Not Give Affirmative
Answer To Allies

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
The Hague, March 16.—It is impossible for Holland to give an affirmative answer to the entente proposal
concerning Dutch shipping says the Nieuw Courant.
"It is an act of violence" it adds,
"to which we are subjected by the ruler of the ocean and nothing makes us so bitter as the attempt being made to base it on the so-called rule
of international law."

Move Ahead.
Washington, March 18.—Plans for operation of the Dutch shipping
which will be acquired by the United States and Great Britain either by voluntary agreement or by requisition
were going forward steadily today
while the government awaited the reply of Holland to the demand that she accede to the terms of the contract
which Germany blocks or suffer
seizure of all her tonnage in America
and British waters.

Holland's reply which has been dispatched to London is expected by officials to conclude the negotiation thereafter. Seizure of the ships in America until the reply is received here which can waters will be delayed however,
may not be until tomorrow.

URGES FARMERS TO GROW MORE WHEAT

Madison, Wis., March 18.—"The whole world is hungry for bread."
This is the statement of R. A.
Moore of the department of agriculture. He is urging Wisconsin farmers to grow spring wheat.

"The world's wheat reserves were exhausted last year with the exception of those that are impossible to move on account of crop rotation or transportation," continued Mr. Moore. "If our boys over there are not to go hungry, we must plant more wheat.
This is our last chance for the year.
We must sow more spring wheat."

"We have already begun to feel the shortage of our wheat supply. The food administration has ordered wheatless days, taken control of the grain mills, food dealers, and flour
sales. All these emphasize the dangerous scarcity of wheat flour. It will take more than 73,000,000 acres of bread stuff to meet the nation's needs for the coming year. We have already planted 45,000,000 acres of winter wheat and rye. This leaves 28,000,000 acres of spring wheat which must be sown if we are to have wheat bread. It is an increase of 40 per cent over the usual spring wheat crop. Will you help Wisconsin do this?"

"In 1917 Wisconsin raised 146,000 acres of wheat. We believe that this acreage can be doubled. An average of five acres of wheat on each farm
would bring the total up to 900,000
acres."

"In the early days wheat was grown
on practically every Wisconsin farm
without thought of crop rotation or rotation of the variety of seed sown.
We now know that we should grow
purebred varieties and these strictly in rotation."

"During the last three years active efforts have been made to increase wheat acreage in Wisconsin. Last year the spring wheat acreage was increased but 36 per cent over 1916.
But the total yield in bushels was increased 55 per cent. This result was largely due to the use of purebred seed sown in proper rotation with other crops."

"Wheat is an easy grain to grow
because the farmer is already supplied with the proper machinery for planting the crop. No additional outlay is necessary. The farmer wants to learn, the wheat can be sown early before it is necessary to put labor on the other crops."

American Patrol Penetrates Enemy
Lines for Some Distance.—
Valuable Information Gained.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
With the American Army in France,
March 18.—Intelligence officers report
evidence leading to the conclusion
that possibly a spy may be at work
within the American line northwest of Toul. This morning an American sentry saw flashes of a signal light from a window facing in the direction of the enemy line. He fired through the window and dashed into
the house, but failed to find anyone.
Four hours earlier important telephone wires within the American line
were found to have been cut.

An American patrol last night entered the enemy trenches, at one end of the sector, and penetrated them for some distance without difficulty. Much valuable information was gathered.
As they were about ready to return
they established contact with the enemy, who opened fire with a machine
gun. The Americans jumped to a safe position and hurried grenades at the enemy gunners, silencing the guns.

Have Trophy.
Returning to the American side of
"No Man's Land" the raiders brought back with them a German rifle breech,
protected by a metallic cover over the muzzle and a small clip cover, both of which operate quickly and efficiently.
Officers of the intelligence department of the American army, who
the detachment was furnished the American troops.

Strongly Entrenched.
Another patrol on the other end of the sector reported that the enemy
first line was held strongly. While the raiders were inspecting the German position the enemy fired upon them several times with machine guns
and rifles, which were aimed at that point. Our artillery bombarded effectively the enemy's position. New enemy works at La Hayville, St. Baumeant, the village of Montigny, Hicourt, in the Quart-de-Reserve along the Pan-nes-Monsard road, and a considerable
body of troops northwest of Buxerolles.
They also battered the American batteries of the sector which had been set up in a double line of trenches.

Enemy's Artillery.
The enemy has shelled various parts
of our position rather heavily, many gas shells being mixed with high explosive ones. Some American soldiers who happen to be near or who walked through the gas have been killed. It seems there were indications that the enemy was trying to isolate one of our positions with shell fire. The visibility was exceptionally good today and the weather was very clear. A great number of wagon trains and
small groups of Germans were seen walking behind the enemy line.

Several times during the day the air
was crowded with airplanes and on one occasion several enemy machines
were over-head at the same time.
Airplanes were also seen over the sector. American observers manuevered to get into a fight with the enemy machine, but they were unsuccessful. American anti-aircraft guns drove off a number of enemy machine and kept the others high in the air.

American observers succeeded in accomplishing much work. They recently prevented the enemy from obtaining badly wanted photographs
and observed certain things back of the German lines.

Heavy Bombardment.
American troops in the Tonneville
sector have been subjected to fairly heavy bombardment during the past twenty-four hours. The enemy has been firing a number of heavy machines and kept the others high in the
air.

The identification of the troops up to this time has been prohibited by the censor. The restriction was removed when it was discovered that the "Stars and Stripes" a newspaper published by, for and of the troops of the American expeditionary forces,
had contained in its latest edition a story disclosing their identity.

INFECTION'S DISEASES
LIMITED BY GOVERNMENT
AND STATE CO-OPERATION.
Washington, March 18.—An unusually successful system of co-operation between the Michigan state board of health and the division of health at Camp Denison is being responsible for excellent conditions of that camp. According to a report made to Surgeon-
General Gorgas today by Lieut.-Col.
Victor C. Vaughn, M. D., of the Michigan division of health.

The purpose of this co-operation,
Col. Vaughn reported, has extended to the limitation of all infectious diseases, but has been most successfully concerned with typhoid fever.
By recommendation of the state
health board, physicians of the state
have reported all cases of dysentery.
To prevent patients from being
sent to the state hospital for treatment,
the state pharmaceutical association was appealed to and responded with its co-operation by asking all retail druggists to discourage the sale of remedies except upon presentation of a prescription. Applicants for remedies have been referred to the medical profession for treatment.

DEDICATE SERVICE FLAG AT LUTHERAN CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Six Members are Now in the Service of Their Country—Excellent Program is Given.

A service flag with six stars upon it was dedicated Sunday evening at the First Lutheran church to the six members of the church who are now in the service of the government. The church was crowded with people who came to do honor to the boys and to listen to the excellent program which had been arranged.

Rev. Thorsen delivered the address of the evening. Rev. Graden of Edgerton was also on the program. The other members of the program included a solo by Oscar Hammarlund and two selections by the male quartet.

Rev. Thorsen in his address, said:

"All progress is slow and a struggle. This earth, once a molten mass of granite, has become almost a paradise. In history, the growth of civilization and his government has been slow.

"Before the outbreak of the present war we thought that the age of ideas here was past and the age of ideas here was past and the age of ideas here was past.

"On the eve of the present war, when the international ties were being strained to the breaking point, the one side called for arbitration, but the other refused. An appeal to arms was inevitable. Then came the war. We in America stood against fear and to listen to the excellent program which had been arranged.

"At last America was drawn into the war. Our entrance into this world devastating war must be a solemn justification. We tried to keep the peace, but we failed. America became a nest of intrigue and plotting. The lives of American citizens were not safe on land or sea.

"We were open to us; to compromise or flight. You cannot compromise a right; no way was left but to fight. From under America's banner of freedom came the hour has struck. America and seize the thunderbolt that God has forged for you, and smite to the uttermost the bulwarks of tyranny and doubt the wisdom of entering into this world war. But as facts have become more known public opinion has matured and the masses are now in step with the martial music of the government.

"Some of the nations may have doubted what our flag stands for, but today none doubts. It stands for democracy. And no war cry ever aroused a nation that had so much truth and justice in it.

"Why are we in this war? President Wilson has answered: 'To make the world safe for democracy.' That is why we send troops to fight on foreign soil. In the month of our enlistment there is room for one word only—democracy.

"Prior to the Civil war, Lincoln said: 'This nation cannot remain half free and half slave. It will become all or nothing.' The world today we may as well say this world cannot remain half autocratic and half democratic. It will become all or nothing. It will be long before the world is a death struggle between the forces of autocracy and democracy, and the forces of democracy will win.

SHOULD TAKE CARE IN DIRECTING MAIL

Writing Should Be Clear and Legible and Names Given in Full in Letters Sent to Soldiers in France.

American relatives writing to soldiers in France are requested by the United States Postal Service in France to be more careful in directing mail to soldiers. They are asked to write with ink, to use "Postals" or rank title instead of "Mister," to make their writing particularly clear and legible, and to write names in full instead of using initials.

Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger has just received the following communication from John Clark, United States Army postal agent in France:

"France, February 17, 1918. 'My attention has been called to innumerable letters in the statistical division which are directed to the wrong address, owing to the fact that the senders of these letters did not have the full name of the person to whom the letters were intended. In some instances, these letters were written with soft lead pencil, which causes them to become illegible.

"J. M. Smith should be written in full, James Franklin Smith. The reason for this is that in the vast number of American soldiers here there are a great many with the name of J. M. Smith. James F. Smith, John P. Smith and Jeremiah F. Smith are very common names, and it is therefore obvious that a letter addressed simply J. M. Smith is undeliverable. Carelessly written addresses wherever they occur, are frequently the cause of the inability to properly decipher the name of the addressee, thereby resulting in undeliverable mail. Addressing in undeliverable matter, but should be written in ink at all times. The preface 'Mister' should not be used in addressing letters. Instead, the word 'private' or 'lieutenant' should be used, that is, the full title of the person for whom the letter is intended should be given.

"In many instances letters are being received at the statistical division which are without return address. Postmasters and other postal officials in the United States should be instructed that such letters are to be returned to the sender. If the sender is in the United States, it is my belief that if the above features which I have enumerated are given the writer, it is possible it will result in a number of undeliverable pieces of mail which are now being handled in the statistical division of the American Expeditionary Forces.

"JOHN CLARK, 'Postal Agent.'

THOUSANDS OF BOYS WANTED ON FARMS IN STATE THIS SPRING

W. B. Senty, County Director, Expects a Record Enrollment of Rock County Boys.

March 18 marks the opening of the enrollment week designated by the federal department of labor for the United States Boys' Working Reserve. The state of Wisconsin has been asked to enroll 19,000 boys between the ages of 16 and 21 in the reserve and Rock county, the richest farming section of southern Wisconsin, is expected to show up strong when it comes to supplying labor, according to W. B. Senty, county Y. M. C. A. secretary, who is county director for the reserve.

In the Janesville and Rock county schools, a considerable number of boys have already enrolled and are willing to take up special training in such classes as have been organized to teach the boys the principles of farm work. These boys know that they will not be treated as first class farm workers, but are showing much enthusiasm withal of getting into the harness.

Enrolling officers have been appointed in different sections of the county so that those who are not reached by mail can become members by applying to their local officers for application blanks. The following enrollment officers have been appointed: Professor A. B. West and A. C. Preston for Janesville; Principal J. H. McNeal and Professor M. J. Smith, Beloit; F. O. Holt, Edgerton; J. F. Waddell, Evansville; Allen Wren, Milton; J. M. Gahagan, Milton Junction; F. J. Coon, Clinton; L. J. Congdon, St. Croix; and B. J. Footville. In addition all public libraries have been designated as places of enrollment by the state department and are furnished with the necessary enrollment material.

Enrollment consists in signing a pledge in which the applicant expresses his willingness to do farm work during the summer. Boys are given a square of paper on which they receive a square of paper. If a boy's work proves satisfactory and he works thirty-six days of eight hours each, a bronze badge will be awarded with a certificate of the national department of labor. This is an acknowledgment of the work that the boys performed in these times.

Mr. Senty called attention again to the fact that all boys on the farms are members of the working reserve and not only the city boys who go to work on the farm, as the impression seems to be.

CORBETT CAPTURED M'GOVERN'S NANNY

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
New York, March 18.—When Terry McGovern went down in the boat before Young Corbett at Hartford in two rounds, he did not succeed in his previous aim.
Young Corbett had Terry's goat. He had something about him that appealed to the Brooklyn boy; something that Terry couldn't explain and never attempted to. But it was there.
On that Thanksgiving afternoon in Hartford, when the great McGovern was to defend his title against the suddenly unknown batter from New Jersey who wanted to back Corbett on the ridiculously short end of the bet, McGovern was invincible, and up to the day of the fight McGovern thought of himself.
There is a story told by several sports men who were on the scene of the fight that Terry's goat was not a goat more than a little ability in the ring.
Just before ring time, so the story goes, Corbett went to Terry's dressing room, banged loudly on the door and shouted that it was time for McGovern to come out and take his beating. This said the Denver lad added other remarks to his trade which sent McGovern into a rage.

At any rate, when McGovern entered the ring he appeared to be unusually nervous and uncertain of himself. For the first time in his life he was facing a man who carried so much self-confidence and bravado about him that it made Terry uneasy.
McGovern didn't know that it was fear that had a grip on him, but he was desperate and far from being himself.
It is history how Corbett knocked out the great Brooklynite in two rounds; how Terry's reign as king of the featherweights was cut short in an unusually brief space of time, and how, when he tried to win back the title in 1908, he took the count in the eleventh round at San Francisco.
Harry Tuttil, trainer of the Detroit Tigers, was young Corbett's trainer at the time, and he came back east on the same train with McGovern. Tuttil says Terry admitted to him that Corbett had his number.
"Terry had a lunch that Corbett's victory in Hartford was smattered with luck," says the "Tiger" trainer, "but after his second defeat he told me that he could not understand what was the matter. He said he could whip everyone else—anyone Corbett could lick—in less time, but so far as the champion went he acknowledged his inferiority in the ring."

Lee Fohl was the first major league manager to arrive at a southern training camp with players.

MADISON TEAM GOES INTO FIRST PLACE

Capital City Bowlers Hit Maples for 2,772, Copping First Honors in Grand Tournament.
The Capital Stars of Madison went into first place in the Southern Wisconsin Bowling tournament Saturday night when they cracked the maples for a grand total of 2,772 pins, knocking their nearest competitors, Schmitt's Colts of Juneau, with 2,704 into second place, and sending Daltab at Madison down to the third peg.
The Madison bowlers showed great ability. In the second game they rolled 989, one of the highest scores in the West Side alleys in some time. For the first two games they average 939 pins per game, while in the last game they fell down, rolling 839. The 200 mark was touched several times.
In the doubles and singles the Madison experts also showed up in good form, but seemed to bowl better when bowling as a team.

"FORWARD" SHOULD BE THE MOTTO OF EVERY CITIZEN IN AMERICA

Rev. C. E. Ewing Preaches Strong Sermon on War, Emphasizing Thought That United States Should Press On and Go Forward.

A strong and vigorous sermon, most timely in its references to war time conditions, was preached yesterday morning at the union service held in the Baptist church. The speaker, Rev. C. E. Ewing, emphasized the thought that a new view of Christ must be taken at the present time; that a strong personality was needed, one who could use the fiery language of the scriptures against wrong, oppression and iniquity.
The text was chosen from the fourteenth chapter of Exodus, 15th verse: "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward," and the circumstances under which the words were spoken were described. "The Israelites dared not go back," he said, "and they had the desert on both sides, and the sea in front of them. In these circumstances there was but one thing to do—to go forward. Some of the Israelites thought it were better to die there, than to go out in the desert; some even wanted to go back, thinking that their lot in Egypt was preferable to unknown suffering. But the decree had come from on high that they must go forward, so they took their march toward the promised land."
When these people were in the wilderness, they learned to do without many things," the speaker said. "Just as we are at the present time can learn to do without meat, and sugar. This period of privation and of soul searching means new standards for the future, not only in personal conduct but in national affairs. We cannot be satisfied with the standards of the past, and there are new standards of obligations for the future."
Social justice is not yet perfect in America, was a thought strongly emphasized by the speaker. "That in the social reconstruction of the future, we must not only say that another race is as good as our race, but that another race is as good as our race. Democracy must be gradually perfected, until it will take in all races and make them feel as one."
The new duties of citizenship were discussed, and the splendid way in which volunteers were taking up various tasks connected with the war were noted. "We must come to know," said the speaker, "that although we each of us have the rights of an American citizen, we also have his duties. That citizenship is expected of us in any civic or political service which we can do."
We should come to think of the administration as our business agent," was another thought pressed home. "And that the officials of the nation are servants of the people, a sort of committee on public affairs." "Sam was represented as standing for us and for the future of the democracy, it was predicted, public affairs may be carried out, without fear, and without favor, and economic system needed readjustment into Egypt, nor yet going to stay in the desert—we are going forward."
The speaker saw a great deal of hope in the Russian situation, in spite of its pitiable condition of today. He said that events had been shaped in good deal by the teachings of Tolstoy. He taught communism, individualism, socialism and the theory of the peace. The poor Russians of today, with no training in anything but theories are trying to combine all these. Holding the classes of conflicting opinions, the speaker discerned a germ of hope, that in time might work out to better things in the future. The economic situation of the future is changing, it was said, but no one could say where or whence it would lead.

"The church societies are being reorganized," it was said, "and former conservatism is doctored. The religion of the past few years has not been entirely satisfactory," said the speaker, "and in this great crisis in world affairs, the church and its ministry have not been the leaders that they ought to have been. The church of the future should lead in service and in message if it would accomplish the good intended for it. People who have accepted theology handed down to them from their grandfathers, must get a new point of view. Theology has to be reconsidered if people are any thinking," was another thought pressed home.
The minister who can preach the same sermons which he did ten or even five years ago, has no business to think. The thought was emphasized, that the war and the crisis of God was not inconsistent; that those people who thought of Christ as meek and mild and a God of love, saw one side of the scriptures. "A study of the scriptures," it was said, "would convince one that was only one point of view. There has been an insidious poisoning of the mind by the devil, and he has been leading them back on Christ in this dilemma, and others have laid their religion on the shelf until their mind was almost a blank. Both the speaker, and it was only necessary to get another point of view. The thought of Christ of the present time, was of one who was strong in battle, fearless in denunciation of wrong, and with courage in time of trouble."
The speaker closed with the statement that we could not be based on the old, but must be strong in our faith, and fearless toward the future, we would press on and go forward.
Pleading music was furnished by the united choirs of the Congregational and Baptist churches, under the direction of Prof. J. S. Taylor. The first anthem was, "Come Let Us Venture," and the second was a lovely bit of melody, "Soft Floating on the Evening Air," sung by a quartet, while the choir sang a soft accompaniment. Union services for most of the churches in the city have been planned for next Sunday evening at the Congregational church.

Meusel, the Coast League outfielder who was purchased by the Phillies, was promptly sent back to him without any change being made in the figures. He says he is through with baseball.

STREET CAR SYSTEM MUST HAVE INCREASE

JANESVILLE TRACTION COMPANY PLEADS CASE BEFORE RAILROAD COMMISSION—JANESVILLE MAY LOSE CARS.

EXPLAINS CONDITIONS

W. C. Sparks, General Manager of Company, Tells Meeting of Conditions Which Force Company to Ask for Raise.

That Janesville is facing a crisis at the present time in regard to the street railway system, was brought out at a meeting held this morning at the city hall. J. S. Allen of the railroad commission was in the city to conduct the hearing in regard to the Janesville Traction company being given permission to raise their fares. It was explained several times during the meeting that this city may be without street cars within a few months.

W. C. Sparks, general manager of the Janesville traction system, testified in regard to the value of the company and the amount of track that it owned. He stated that the company owned five and three-tenths miles of track in this city. He further stated that the total value of the property was $1,020,000; total value of the tracks, $750,000; bridges, $1,050,000; overheads, $10,000; equipment, $26,800; making a total of $1,856,800. He stated that this was a fair estimate of the entire value of the Janesville Traction company.

W. H. Lemons, secretary of the Janesville Traction company, and auditor, then testified in regard to the earnings of the company. He explained how all records of the company were kept at Rockford and that the Janesville Traction company had no office or office in this city. It was stated that the local company was cleared seventy-five dollars a month for the work done for them in Rockford. He then explained the earnings of the company for the past few years and during the discussion it was found that only once in several years had the company paid any dividend to the stockholders.

The condition of the company was explained in detail. In the three months ending February 28, 1918, the Janesville Traction company lost over two thousand dollars. As the company was not operating under a franchise, he stated that it cost the company $.0853 cents per passenger.

In further questioning, Mr. Allen stated that he has been acquainted with the local situation for many years and that he has never known the company to pay.

Mr. Sparks was again called upon and asked what he thought best to remedy the loss. He stated that the company wanted an increase in fares in order to make money, but to be allowed to charge enough so they can operate without a loss. F. M. Newton, expert of Jackson, Mich., was called upon and he explained the street car system in many different cities and told how nearly every company in the east are asking for an increase, and that every street car system in the state of Michigan has asked for an increase, and that it would be impossible for them to operate unless given the increase.

The question of the condition of the cars and service was brought up. Mr. Sparks and Mr. Lemons both testified that to the best of their knowledge the cars were in good running condition and that the service was as good as could be found in any city situated as this city is. The increase in wages was then discussed and it was shown that a few years ago they were hiring men to man the cars for $1.65 for sixteen hours work, where today they are paying the men about three dollars a day for eleven and one-half hours.

The question of what would be a fair rate was then taken up and this caused much discussion. With an increase of two cents making the fare three cents, and eliminating the tickets, the company could operate providing the decrease in passengers did not exceed twenty percent. The case was then left to Mr. Allen of the railroad commission, and a verdict will undoubtedly be given within a short time.

Walter Helms has just received an excellent variety of seed which is called the "Early Amber" and is now ready for distribution. Mr. Oas states that he will be able to handle all that the farmers will grow so that any farmer who wish to take advantage of his offer should communicate with him at once.

SLEIN APPEALS TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

Files Appeal For Review of Action of Fire and Police Commission in Dismissing Him From Police Force.

Thinking that the grounds on which he was discharged from the Janesville police force are insufficient, Patrick Slein, who was dismissed from the force, has filed an appeal to the circuit court for a review of the case. As Judge Grimm is in the city this week and will be here for some time, the case will be heard before him within the next few days. The law states that the case must be heard within fifteen days from the date of the filing of the application and that no jury is necessary.

Mayor Fathers, chairman of the fire and police commission, which voted to dismiss Slein from the force, has filed with Jesse Earle, clerk of the circuit court, a full report of the proceedings of the meeting and an affidavit of Morris Morgansstein, the salesman attacked by Slein.

Slein is convinced that he acted fully in accordance with the law when he struck Morgansstein and he is confident that the facts of the case are considered by Judge Grimm, he will be reinstated on the police force. If necessary, witnesses will be called and testimony taken when the case comes up for a hearing.

"Are You In Debt?"

A wealthy business man asked his young assistant if he was in debt.

The young man replied with a good deal of pride that he was not.

"Well you ought to be," said the boss and handed the young man several shares of stock in a successful corporation.

The young man paid for the stock, went in debt for more and paid for that—and continued to go in debt for good investments for many years.

We advise you to adopt this plan in buying Liberty Bonds. We will sell you any bonds you ought to buy and loan you nearly all the money needed to pay for them.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

"Lost We Forget," the patriotic photo play, in which Rita Jolivet, survivor of the Lusitania, is to be starred, is a picture of exceptional dramatic merit. The play is filled with action and incident and any account of its scheme would be incomplete in so short a space.

A number of its most stirring scenes, however, might be related. Miss Jolivet, in the course of the action, escapes the many brutalities of the enemy while she has served as a telegraph operator in Belgium and where she has heroically defied the threats and tortures of the Hun, and returns to America. In New York she encounters a German baron whose unwelcome attentions she had repulsed before the outbreak of the war and whom she discovers to be an agent of the German spy system. When she returns to Europe on the Lusitania, she is about to be captured by the enemy. She is able to escape, but she is about to be captured by the enemy. She is able to escape, but she is about to be captured by the enemy. She is able to escape, but she is about to be captured by the enemy.

Hackett on Stage
Royman Hackett, who will be recalled by film followers through his four years' service with the old Lubin organization, is making his first appearance in a growing role on Broadway. He is with Lionel Barrymore in "The Copperhead." One of his best known roles was the boy in "The Awakening of Helena Richie."

Ethel Clayton, the widow of Joseph Kaufman, is spending a few weeks in the country, following the completion of her contract with the World Film Corporation. She leaves soon for California, where she will work with Paramount. Previous to this, however, she will make a brief trip to Honolulu, starting her studio work on June 1.

Sonia Markova, heralded as a Fox star, and announced as a Russian actress of ability, has severed her connection with the producing firm. Her future plans are not announced. It is probable, however, that she will join with her husband, Alan Hale, in photo play work. Before Fox rechristened her she was known to film fans as Gretchen Hartman.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM GIVEN LAST EVENING

St. Patrick's Day Entertainment Held at Myers Theatre Sunday Evening.—Rev. William Mahoney Spoke.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of the Irish, was duly honored last evening by a crowd that filled the Myers Theatre. A splendid program was given and each number was well received.

Mr. H. Dougherty, toastmaster for the occasion, gave a short opening address in which he pointed out why the people of Janesville gathered at that time to pay respect to St. Patrick. He also spoke of how the entertainments have grown for the past thirty years until now St. Patrick's day is one of the big days of the year.

The program opened with a tableau "Erin Go Bragh," depicting an Irish home in Ireland at sundown. The characters were all very good and the act was a decided hit. Dennis McCarthy of Beloit, who has sung on several different occasions in this city, sang, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." The rendition was excellent and Mr. McCarthy was called upon for an encore. Miss Constance Cunningham gave a recitation, "The Word of Canara," which was very well received. William Hanson gave a recitation, "The Word of Canara," which was very well received.

Rev. William Mahoney was then introduced as the speaker of the evening. In opening his address Rev. Mahoney explained that he would like to spend the evening telling the people of the Irish race but in these stirring times he would have to use patriotism as the keynote of his address. He then told a few Irish jokes which soon had the people in an uproar. In his address he spoke of the terrible conditions that confront this country, of the splendid work that the boys are doing and that the boys from this city are and will be doing. His address was full of patriotism and was greatly appreciated by all present.

Several other equally as good numbers were given and all were of the highest quality. The program closed with a flag drill. Miss Mary Reardon in the role of Columbia was very good. Miss Elizabeth Denning assisted at the piano. The program follows:

Tableau—"Erin Go Bragh," depicted by Margaret Denning, Charlotte Connell, Florence Ryan, Stella Cullen and Patrick Dodd.

Song—"Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," Dennis McCarthy.

Recitation—"The Word of Canara," Miss Constance Cunningham.

Address—Rev. William Mahoney.

Recitation—"The Convict's Violin," Miss Elizabeth Schuster.

Song—"Irish Names," Dennis McCarthy.

Cornet solo—"Southern Melody," William Hanson, Alois Greykowski, accompanist.

Flag Drill—With Columbia, Mary Reardon; pianist, Elizabeth Denning, and the following taking part: Margaret Connell, Stella Cullen, Catherine Olson, Veronica Britt, Helen Reardon, Queenie Roberts, Loretta Griffiths, Margaret Reardon, Frances Gillispie, Stella Cullen, Marie Gillespie, Georgia Trotter, Rose Roberts, Mary Connors, Catherine Brennan, Pearl Sullivan, Marie Barry, Eleanor Croak, Emily Wilbur, Helen Hanley, Charlotte Connell, Rosemary O'Brien, Alice Connell, Florence Ryan, Mary Connell, Ellen Mooney.

The Daily Novelette

WHEN GREEK MEETS SHRIMP.
She was such a frail little thing, and her awed admiration of Brutus's manly strength was so touching, that he fell in love with her right off.

"Oh, how strong you are!" she would breathe.

"Not a fall," he would laugh superiorly, as, with feigned carelessness, he moved the piano nearer the window with one hand, or chinned himself rapidly eighty times in succession on the chandelier.

He taught her to swim, and three months later he could hardly keep up to her in the water.

He taught her Indian club exercises and Swedish movements and how to throw the Spanish medicine ball, and before long she was an even nobler specimen of womanhood than he was of manhood. She grew five inches in height, and her spicuous muscles became the pride of the gymnasium.

"What a perfectly matched couple!" people would exclaim as they passed on the street. And then one fatal day she met Percy Speck, and he was so small and so puny and so hopelessly insignificant that her heart went out to him, and a week later she helped him to the city hall and married him.

"I suppose it was just another case of attraction of opposites," she explained apologetically to Brutus Peppi.

"I pitied him so."

By that time she was so husky that Brutus was afraid to box her ears, so he merely went off and married an invalid eighty years his senior, who loathed all forms of athletic exercise.

Musical Event

Alma Gluck, whose phenomenal career reads like a story, and who is already acknowledged one of the leading prima donnas of the day, has with her successes maintained a personality that has made for her friends wherever she has appeared, and that she is to visit Rockford, April 5 is cause for rejoicing among musicians and citizens in general who will want to give her a royal welcome at Shrine Temple, and a hearing such as she deserves.

E. H. Jackson of the Talking Machine Shop is bringing Alma Gluck to Rockford at an expense of $2,000; she is not brought here by the Victor Talking Machine company, neither is this to be the occasion of a tone test. The Gluck will give one of her finest concert programs and people should understand the significance of such an event.

The gifted woman is a native of Rumania, but was brought to America while still a child and educated in New York, so she is essentially American. What she has accomplished is the result of long, hard study supported by a firm courage which meant success.

Her debut was made in 1909 when she was chosen to create the role of Sophie in Massenet's "Werther" for the Metropolitan Opera company.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-two years old. I have an opportunity which calls me many miles away. I have a girl friend near here whom I like very much. Would it be all right to leave her? And how can I keep her a sweetheart and still keep her from having a good time?

I may be gone two or three years. Would you advise me to keep up a correspondence, or have her forget me?

DOUBTFUL DICK.
You are too young to tie yourself to one girl by becoming engaged to her. It will be best for you to leave her with no definite understanding as to the future except that you value her friendship highly and that you want her to write you often. When you reach your destination you should write her at once, showing her that you really want to correspond and giving her a chance to answer you letter.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a boy friend in the army who sent me a war saving stamp for my birthday. I appreciated it very much, but my girl friend said it was as bad as accepting money or jewelry and that I should return it to him. I don't want to. What do you think?

Under the circumstances if it will be all right to accept the gift. I don't think the boy also did a service for his country which was a very good idea.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls fifteen and seventeen.

received letters from two boys in another town whom we met and have gone with while on a vacation. How long should we wait before we answer? And what could we write about to make an interesting letter?

CHUMS.
Wait a week or two before answering. Tell them whatever interests you most and they will probably be interested too. Also comment on what they told you so that they will know that you appreciated their letters.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am seventeen years old. I am to be married in the spring. Would a suit or dress be best to wear?

(2) Do you think it is proper to correspond with other boys after you are engaged?

BRIDE-TO-BE.
(1) If you do not feel you can afford a suit and a dress buy whichever you think will be more serviceable. A dress is usually worn more often than a suit because they can get more service from it.

(2) It is all right if the boy you are engaged to doesn't care.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have dark hair, but I do not like the color of it. Is there anything that will make it still darker? CAROLINE.

Leave your hair its natural color because it is prettier that way than any way you can color it. I have never known anyone who dyed her hair with success. When the hair grows out at the roots the difference shows and causes the hair to be streaked and artificial looking.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Are girls of seventeen too old to wear their hair down their backs? DOUBTFUL SEVENTEEN.

Most girls look very well if they wear their hair braided or tied in the back but not hanging loosely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years old. Do you think a black silk skirt too old for me?

Yes, I think it is too old. Brown blue stripes or a plaid would be so much prettier and more youthful.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

WE REBUKE A CORRESPONDENT

Sometimes the best medicine a doctor can give a patient is a good round rebuke. Call it what you please, but it is just barely possible he may do something for himself.

Here's a man we rebuked, as far as the amenities of correspondence would permit.

"Sixty-six, work at desk all day, eat like sixty too, and could eat more, my appetite is fine. Nervous wreck. Catarrh badly. Hands numb. Last ten years. Doctor says I have to retire. Blood pressure 155. Doctor says I must give up business and retire to farm and live quietly. In the past year I have added a new ailment to my growing list. When I walk several blocks a severe pain comes in the right side of the chest, extending down the right arm. I have to stop, then the pain passes off, only to return soon after I resume the walk. This happens more certainly when I walk after a hearty meal. Then I must not forget that I have suffered from a kind of fever the past two years or more. Doctor says my kidneys, heart and everything are all right. But the fact remains, I am wearing out, and can see no hope of cure. I cannot retire—that would be a nerve specialist? I suppose I am a complicated proposition, but I feel that your suggestions might help me."

So you're not at all complicated. You're just an ordinary, everyday, flesh person. You can't retire. You mean you won't.

Have the "catarrh" diagnosed by a doctor who examines the insides of people's noses with a light and nose speculum. The "catarrh," whatever it proves to be, and the hay fever symptoms as well, are very likely due to chronic infection in the atrophic or rhinitis sinuses.

Karel, it is never too late to mend. Try temperature and brief fasts for a year or two and see how much more comfortable you'll be all round. Karel, it may not be too late.

Forget that "nervous wreck" business.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

When French pastry or cake with soft icing is served, the correct utensil for eating it is the fork.

Donald: I think I must ask the young lady to stop in your city for a few days when she passes through on her way home, in order that you may have the opportunity to visit with her. Such a proceeding would be very improper. The only way consistent with decorum in which she might stop would be for some other person to act as chaperon for the occasion. This woman should be known personally or through mutual acquaintances to the girl's mother. Showed me at the train in your company, and should remain with her throughout her stay. The invitation to stop should be extended to the chaperon, and not to you, so the chaperon would be assured beforehand of her chaperonage.

Edna: When your guests tell you as they are leaving that they have had a good time at your luncheon, you might reply, "I am so glad you did," or "I am glad you enjoyed it," or "I am glad you could come." The simple and natural thing is usually the best thing to say in all circumstances.

as they do their husbands—only a little more circumspectly because a maid can fire up her broom and sweep out the room for improvement but this fretful habit of picking on them is not the way to inspire it. I suppose the man in an office who commands other men has usually climbed up from the ranks, and knows what it is to be commanded; the woman who is a maid has never been in the maid's place.

Clothed With a Little Brief Authority.

Needless to say, I do not exonerate the maid from blame. Labor conditions in this country have clothed her with a little brief authority and she uses it as people so clothed usually do.

It is maddening never to be able to have things done as you want them about your house, to see your dishes washed in greasy water, your pantry in disorder, and good food thrown into the crumb-bucket unless you keep constantly at your helper.

My Favorite Dream, The Co-Operative Kitchen.

I have a friend of some means who once employed two maids. She has now put in every kind of labor saving device she can buy and gets along with one maid. She makes a distinct saving and finds life easier.

In that direction, to my mind, lies the ultimate solution of the maid problem, the use of labor saving devices and perhaps some day that wonderful dream, the co-operative kitchen.

I wish some philanthropist would use her fortune to develop that last idea. I don't believe she could add more to the happiness of the world.

Set the batter over night. In the morning beat batter again, grease the griddle and add one cup warm milk in which one heaping teaspoon soda has been dissolved. If batter is not thin enough add more milk.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

For Earache—One drop of arnica put in the ear when the ache is first felt stops the ache at once.

For Headaches—One can buy a five-cent package of mullein leaves at any drug store. A scant teaspoon of leaves to a cup of boiling water makes a good dose for a child of eight years. It is very palatable when sweetened. Take for two or three days, just before going to bed.

THE TABLE.

Barley Soup With Prunes (serves four people).—Especially good for children, also grownups. Take one coffee cup filled with barley and boil until done. Have about twelve (or as many as you like) prunes washed, drop in the barley, add pinch of salt. When all is done add one-half pint of milk, sweeten to taste and it is ready to serve. It is fine and healthful.

Noodles With Tomatoes, for luncheon. Dinner—Stirke (home) noodles, with one cup mashed potatoes, one egg, one-half teaspoon salt, well whipped together. Thicken flour sufficient to make stiff dough. Roll quite thin, cut fine and put into one quart boiling water slightly salted. Cook twenty minutes. Use one pint canned tomatoes over noodles. Add one cup butter.

Whipped Custard (serves ten people).—Beat yolks of six eggs and six tablespoons sugar until it blubbers, beat in one glass, or one quart, of juice of one orange, lemon, then fold in the whites of six eggs beaten stiff. Lastly add contents of a package of plain gelatin dissolved in warm water. Use a large bowl mix this in and make the day before it is to be used. Fine for party refreshment.

DEODORIZERS

To prevent the smell of fish on forks, add a spoonful of mustard to the dishwater.

The smell of onions may be done away with by washing the pan in hot water with soap, drying it and then washing it in a little strong vinegar. Add a little sugar to the water when boiling turnips to keep down the odor. This also improves the flavor of the vegetables.

To deodorize cooking fat, cut up a raw potato and fry it in the fat.

Her Great Adventure

by Zoe Beckley

MRS. GRUNDY, CHAPERONE.
"Flowers, candy and books." These three mainstays of regard, Claire had often read, were permissible from a man to a girl without Mrs. Grundy's sensibilities being outraged. As Claire unwrapped Lane's roses and orchids, revealing for an instant with eyes closed and face buried in their delectable fragrance, she kept repeating to herself, "flowers, candy, books—there is nothing wrong or unwise in accepting such tokens. He is a rich man. He enjoys making people happy. Flowers, candy, books—it's all right—perfectly all right."

If you repeat a story or an ophorism often enough you come to believe it. Claire began to believe. Had Lane become markedly friendly in office hours, or assumed the least unpleasantness in his manner, Claire would have shied from his path like a scared rabbit before an oncoming motor. For Claire Barton had no desire for the clandestine. The illegality of the cheap, contemptible ways of living softly at minimum expense allured her not at all.

Luxury appealed to her as they do to all healthy girls. Claire wanted to earn hers. She wanted to earn them by her own industry or by some home-making process of her own. She was nearly twenty-seven. She had never till the last few months known any life but the drab existence in "Farmers Junction." Oh, the quarters of her small brothers! The querulous fault-finders and self-indulgences of her mother! The round of drudgery and village doings! round of drudgery and village doings! round of drudgery and village doings!

Small wonder, then, that Claire's wish became mother to a thought. She wished for the stimulating joy of success in work. She wished for the satisfying joy of success in love. She did not look for the events that were sweeping her along. It was enough to have work and the vague, sweet promise of something interesting ahead.

Of course with the world long for "something interesting ahead." Claire put her flowers in water and hummed a tune. The late spring afternoon was soft. In a back yard that she could see from her open window a man was digging. A cat was blinking on a fence in the rays of the setting sun. A huckster was crying "Sourberry-ried" and "STRAWBERRY RIES!" in the street somewhere.

Thoughts of her old home came into Claire's mind. She had got a lot of touch with the home folks. By little old Miss Prudence Cowan was remembered so very often.

Claire thought of her now, poignantly, gratefully. She must repay Miss Prudence that hundred dollar—and quickly. She felt ashamed of having saved so little toward the canceling of her debt. She had hoarded the wonderful two and some cents.

Small wonder, then, that Claire's wish became mother to a thought. She wished for the stimulating joy of success in work. She wished for the satisfying joy of success in love. She did not look for the events that were sweeping her along. It was enough to have work and the vague, sweet promise of something interesting ahead.

Sales of the Friendly Forest

by David Gray

I'm sorry I had to leave off in the last story just as something exciting was going to happen to Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky, but I'm glad to be able to tell you right now that the safety match didn't scratch my telephone last night. I'm able to go on with the story. Well, as the two rabbits reached the foot of the mountain there stood right in the middle of the road a fierce moose, and as the rabbits saw him they couldn't stop in time, and so they ran plump into the moose. And, oh, dear me! of course the rabbits were smashed to bits and all the hair on one side of the moose was clipped off as nearly as if he had gotten to the barber's, and when he got up he was as wild as a Texas steer.

"I'll go and tell Teddy on you," he said. And this of course frightened the two rabbits nearly to death. For they didn't want to have any trouble with a Texas Steer. No siree! They had enough trouble already with the automobile.

"Oh, please forgive me, Mr. Moose," cried Billy Bunny. "I blew the horn, but you didn't pay any attention to it."

"I thought it was a bullfrog," answered the Moose, looking at himself in the rear-view of one of the lamps. "By Jove! that was a close shave!" and he rubbed his side where the hair was off and whisked his tail.

"That's a very steep mountain," said Uncle Lucky. "And then he got out and untied the wheel, which he had fastened, you know, to keep from going too fast."

"Oh, dear me!" cried poor Uncle Lucky. "There goes my lucky rabbit!" and he and Billy Bunny trotted out of the stump and wondered what to do. And in the next story you shall hear about Katvold, who sometimes said she didn't and sometimes said she did.

"We shot at a moose, but away he did steal. So, instead, we captured an automobile."

Cap'n Warren's Wards

By JOSEPH C. LINCOLN.
Copyright, 1911, D. Appleton & Co.

"Any more?" she repeated in bewilderment. "He told me that you were the kindest man he had ever seen."

"Yes, yes. Well, maybe his eyesight's poor. What I mean is did he tell you anything about anybody else being in this with me?"

"Anybody else? What do you mean?"

"Oh, nothing, nothing. I joked with him a spell ago about a wealthy relation of the Mortarty tribe."

"That was only a joke, of course. And yet, Caroline, I—I think I ought to say—"

"He hesitated. What could he say? Even a hint might lead to embarrassing questions, and he had promised Diana."

"What ought you to say?" asked his niece.

"Well, nothing, I guess. I am glad you understand matters a little better and don't intend for the estate nor you to pay these Mortarty bills. Just get 'em off your mind. Forget 'em. I'll see that everything's attended to. And, later on, if you and me can, by putting our heads together, help those folks to earn a better living, why, we will, hey?"

The girl smiled up at him. "I think," she said, "that you must be one who likes to hide his light under a bushel. Thank you—uncle."

She left Captain Elisha in a curious state of mind. Against his will he had been forced to accept thanks and credit which he believed, did not rightfully belong to him. It was the only thing to do, and yet it seemed like a betrayal to Malcolm Dunn. This troubled him, but the trouble was, just then, a mere pinhead of blackness against the radiance of his spirit.

His brother's daughter had for the first time called him uncle.

A note on the dining room table proved, to the captain's delight, to be from James Pearson. It was brief and to the point.

"Why don't you come and see me?" were the young man's. "I've been expecting you, and you promised to come. Have you forgotten my address? If so, here it is. I expect to be in all day tomorrow."

The consequence of this was that at 11 o'clock the next day found Captain Elisha pulling the bell at a brick house in a long brick block on a west side in the street. The block had evidently been in its time the homes of well-to-do people, but now it was rather dingy and gone to seed. Across the street the first floors were for the most part small shops, and in the windows above them doctors' signs alternated with those of modistes, miniature artists and milliners.

The pull at the boarding house bell was answered by a rather stately maid, who informed the visitor that she guessed Mr. Pearson was in. He must always be around lunch time. So Captain Elisha waited in a typical boarding house parlor before a grue with no fire in it and surrounded by walnut and plush furniture until Pearson himself came hurrying downstairs.

"Say, you're a brick, Captain Warren," he declared as they shook hands. "I hoped you'd come today. Why haven't you before?"

The captain explained his having mislaid the address.

The captain asked about the novel and how it was progressing. His companion followed a long discussion over a point of seamanship, the handling of a bark in a gale.

At length Captain Elisha, having worked "Uncle Jim" into a safe harbor after a hundred mile cruise under jury rig, with all hands watch and watch at the pumps, leaned forward in triumph to refill his pipe. Having done so, his eyes remained fixed upon a photograph standing, partially hidden by a leather collar box, upon the dresser. He looked at it intently, then rose and took it in his hand.

"Well, I s'wan!" he exclaimed. "Either what my head's been the fullest of lately has struck to my eyesight or else—why, say, Jim, that's Caroline, ain't it?"

Pearson colored and seemed embarrassed. "Yes," he answered, "that is Miss Warren."

"Humph! Good likeness too! But what kind of rig has she got on? I've seen her wear a good many dresses—seems to have a different one for every day, pretty nigh—but I never saw her in anything like that. Looks sort of outlandish, like one of them foreign girls at Geneva—or Leghorn, say."

"Yes, that is an Italian peasant costume. Miss Warren wore it at a fancy dress ball a year ago."

"Want to know? I Italian peasant hey! Fifth avenue peasant with diamonds in her hair. Becomin' to her, ain't it?"

"Yup; she looks pretty enough! But she don't need diamonds nor hand organ clothes to make her pretty."

Then, looking up from the photograph, he asked, "Give you this picture, did she?"

His friend's embarrassment increased.

ed. "No," he answered shortly; then, after an instant's hesitation: "That ball was given by the Astorblills and was one of the most swagger affairs of the season. The Planet—issues a Sunday supplement of half (one reproduction) of photographs. One page was given up to pictures of the ball and the costumes worn there."

"I see. Astonishin' how folks do like to get their faces into print. I used to know an old woman—Aunt Hepsibah Tucker, her name was—she's dead now. The pride of Aunt Hepsibah's heart was that she took nineteen bottles of 'Balm of Burdock Tea' and the tea folks printed her picture as a testimonial that she lived through it. Ho, ho! And society bigwigs appear to have the same craving."

"Some of them do. But that of your niece was obtained by our society reporter from the photographer who took it. Bribery and corruption, of course. Miss Warren would have been at least surprised to see it in our supplement. I fancied she might not care for so much publicity and suppressed it."

"Um-hm. Well, I guess you did right. I'll thank you for her. By the way, I told Caroline where I was 'celatin' to go this mornin', and she wished to be remembered to you."

CHAPTER IX.
The New Second Mate.

PEARSON seemed pleased, but he made no comment. Captain Elisha blew a smoke ring from his pipe.

"And say, Jim," he added, embarrassed in his turn, "I hope you won't think I'm interferin' in your affairs, but are you still set against comin' up to where I live? I know you said you had a reason, but are you sure it's a good one?"

He waited for an answer, but none came. Pearson was gazing out of the window. The captain looked at his watch and rose.

"I guess I'll have to be goin'," he said. "It's after 12 now."

His host swung around in his chair. "Sit down, captain," he said. "I've been doing a lot of thinking since I saw you, and I'm not sure about that reason. I believe I'll ask your advice. It's a delicate matter, and it involves your brother. You may see it as he did, and if so our friendship ends, I suppose. But I'm going to risk it."

"Mr. Rodgers Warren and I," he went on, "were well acquainted during the latter part of my newspaper work. I was financial man on the Planet, and some articles I wrote took your brother's fancy. At all events, he wrote me concerning them in highly complimentary terms and asked me to call and see him at his office. I did so, and—well, we became very friendly, so much so that he invited me to his house. I dined there several times, was invited to call often, and—I enjoyed it. You see, I had few friends in the city outside my journalistic acquaintances, and I suppose I was flattered by Mr. Warren's kindness and the fancy he seemed to have taken to me. And I liked Miss Warren—no one could help that—and I believed she liked me."

"She does like you," interrupted his companion, with surprise. "Caroline's a good girl."

"Yes; she is. However, she isn't in this story except as a side issue. At this time my ambitions were for a newspaper career, and I thought I was succeeding. And her father's marked interest and the things he said to me promised me even an ordinary success. He was a well known man on the street and influential. So my head began to swell, and I dreamed—a lot of foolishness. And then—"

He paused, put down his empty pipe and sighed.

"Well, then," he continued, "came the upset. I judged from what you said at your previous conversation, captain, that you were well enough acquainted with Wall street to know that quack operations take place there. Did you read about the south shore trolley business?"

Captain Elisha considered. "Why, yes," he said slowly; "seem's if I did; one of those consolidations with 'hold-in' companies' and franchises and extensions and water by the hoghead. Wasn't that it? I remember now. The Boston papers had considerable about it, and I presume likely the New York ones had more. One of those all accordin' to law swindles that sprout same as toadstools in a dark place, but die out if the light's turned on too sudden. This one didn't come to nothin' but a bad smell, if I remember right."

"You do. And I suppose I'm responsible for the smell. I got wind of the thing, investigated, found out something of what was going on and printed a preliminary story in the Planet. It caused a sensation."

came upstairs?"

Visitor—Yes, yes, I did.

Editor—Well, he was carrying out your idea.

Two farmers, who are neighbors, are very tall and slender, and each of them boasts to the other that he is the thinner. A few days ago they came to town to attend a circus. Before entering the big tent they visited the side shows and spent some time in front of the platform on which the "living skeleton" was exhibited. For a time they stared in wonder and then one of them turned to the other and broke the silence.

"I thought I was thin," he said, but, by golly, that fellow is thinner than both of us put together."

Beaver White of the war train board said in an after-dinner speech: "The Russian idealists who talk of universal peace and disarmament at this stage of the war are courting destruction for their country. 'Peace' may have been all right once. Today it reminds me of the mother who wrote to the schoolmaster who wanted to teach his pupils how to swim: 'Please do not teach my boy swimming, as I do not wish him to be drowned.'"

"We ought to have variety in our food for thoughts," said a man who occasionally enjoys a few mixed metaphors.

Reserve Stock of Patience. The patience man expends in bearing his little trials of his daily life nature stores for him as a wondrous reserve in a crisis of life.—W. G. Jordan.

Appreciation. Ed (in motorcar): "This controls the brake. It is put on very quickly in case of an emergency." Co-Ed: "Oh, I see; something like a kimono."

Certain-teed

Roofing - Paints - Varnishes

Certain-teed means certainty of quality and guaranteed satisfaction—

the first and last object of careful buyers. Both quality and satisfaction are guaranteed by a business which has gained world leadership because of its ability to manufacture and distribute the highest quality products at fair prices.

Certain-teed Roofing &amp; Shingles

Certain-teed is a conservation product. It is made from rags and asphalt, skillfully converted into roofing that is impervious to the elements.

Certain-teed is the most efficient type of roof for all kinds of buildings, from the modern skyscraper to the farm barn. It is light weight, weatherproof, clean, sanitary, fire-retardant. Certain-teed is not affected by fumes or gases, and cannot rust or corrode. Its first cost is moderate, laying cost low, and upkeep practically nothing. Certain-teed is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness.

Certain-teed Paints &amp; Varnishes

Made from the best quality materials, mixed by modern machinery in scientifically correct proportions to produce the highest quality paint.

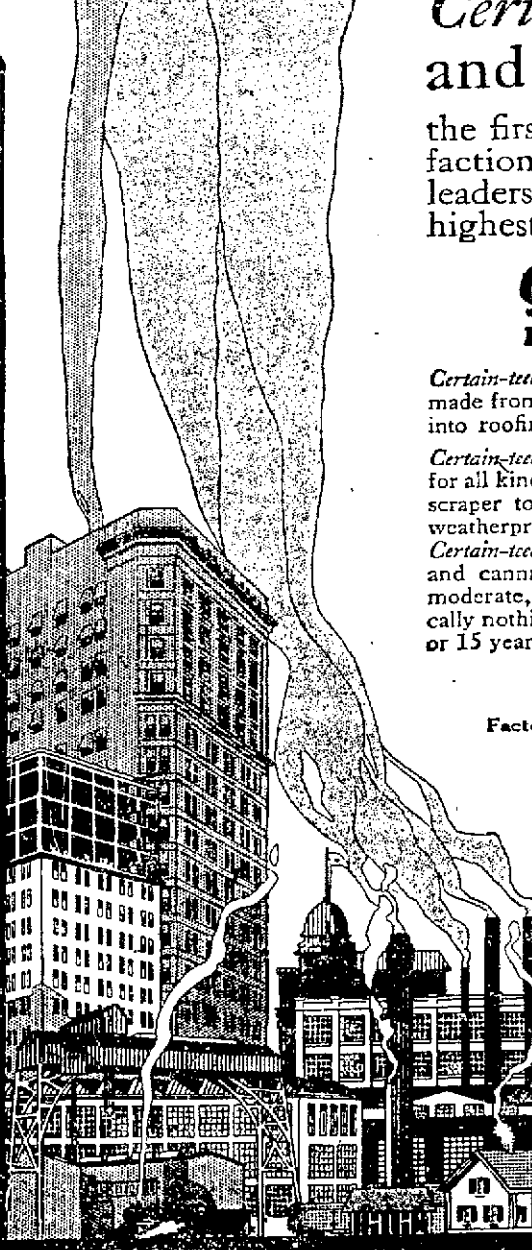

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are sold at cost plus a small profit. Each color is priced according to its cost. Paint makers usually charge the same for all colors, basing their prices on the cost of making the expensive colors. The Certain-teed policy puts each color on the right basis. Therefore most Certain-teed Paints cost you less than competing paints of anything like the same high quality.

THOUSANDS OF BOYS WILL SOON BE READY TO MAN U. S. VESSELS

The United States shipping board chartered from the Eastern Steamship company last December, the steamer Calvin Austin, formerly in passenger service between Boston and Atlantic ports further north. Subsequently a sister ship, the Governor Dingley, was taken into this service. The Austin, once an army transport, now became the next unit of this fleet; and announcement is made that with the establishment of a training station at San Francisco, the Princeton, a United States gunboat, will be taken over. As the system expands, other ships will be chartered for service along the Pacific coast, and there will be vessels from the Gulf coast. It is estimated that one of these training ships combines instruction and play. At 6 a. m. the 600 boys at present on the Calvin Austin arise and tidy their rooms. Breakfast and general work comes up their time until 9:30, when discipline and instruction begin. Then comes inspection, boat drill, "cleaning up," and dinner at noon. Fire drill, swimming, boat drill, knot-making and general work occupy the afternoon hours until supper. In the evening the boys have recreation—reading, singing, sometimes shore leave. The Hoover program is observed by the boys.

The boys receive better food, it may be stated, than they expect to receive on many of the merchantmen on which they will serve in later years. It is simple and nutritious. The Hoover program is observed by the boys.

At Boston, Stanton H. King has the only war job of his kind. King is official chandler of the new merchant marine. At the weekly entertainment which the recruits enjoy ashore at Boston, they are instructed by King in the ballads of the sea. Although a majority of the recruits will serve on steamers, some will ship on sailing vessels; chandlering is considered so by valuable for both classes of men, as it insures teamwork when a crew is pulling on ropes. "Blow the Man Down," which comes from the Atlantic sailing, pocket ships of old, and "Serenade" are among the favorites with these recruits.

MAGNOLIA

Magnolia, March 18.—A great sorrow crept into our hearts this morning when word was passed along that Mrs. Helen Thompson Furseth had passed away at the Cook hospital of Evansville last night at about ten o'clock. A week ago this morning she gave birth to a little baby girl, and seemed to be holding her own, and blood poison developed and she was not strong enough to throw it off. A specialist from Madison was called Thursday night, and all that evening friends and still could do were of no avail. Helen was of a bright, cheerful disposition, and had a host of friends who with her relatives are left to mourn her loss. Her immediate relatives are father, mother two sisters, Mrs. June Carlson, and Amy, and two brothers, Carl of the machine and gun company at Camp Grant, and Ben at home, besides her husband and baby daughter. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made. The bereaved have the sympathy of all.

Mrs. Wm. Worthing is very low. Mrs. Gen. Townsend is suffering with a lame hip, the result of a fall on the ice.

Milton News

Milton, March 18.—C. E. Perry of Brandon spent Tuesday night in Milton on business. He will move his family here in about two weeks and he will take an active part in getting the new heavy factory ready for operation. The site for the new industry has been secured of J. H. Burdick on Janesville street.

We are informed also that orders for the heavy machinery have been placed and most of it is ready for shipment. Plenty of seed has also been ordered with the assurance of its arrival in time for seeding.

There have been rumors afloat that the hemp product was not in good demand and that the enterprise might fall through. But this is farthest from the facts. On the contrary the United States government is calling for the product in great quantities for war purposes.

The parties back of the local enterprise have the greatest confidence in the success of their undertaking with big returns to the farmer that grows the crop.

Milton Junction

Milton Jet, March 18.—In the February blockade of the railroads the roads were not the only losers. As an illustration of how it affected our dairy farmers. Here is one man's statement. He is milking thirty-four cows and for the first fifteen days of the month his cream brought him $170 at the factory here. He resumed shipping and for the last thirteen days his milk paid him $407, making his loss about $15.00 per day. This same farmer claims he can make more money from milk at $3.00 per hun-der than he can from hogs at $15.00. Mr. and Mrs. Berham Reed of Falmouth, were Sunday guests of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Hull.

75% of all hauling can be done by a Maxwell Truck

MAXWELL TRUCK

There are now more than 6600 Maxwell trucks in use. And we cannot find a single business that the Maxwell isn't adapted to.

Up to this time we have listed over 300 kinds of businesses in which Maxwell trucks are employed.

They will do everything a 5-ton truck will do except haul 5 tons at one load. 5-ton trucks aren't better. They're merely bigger.

Big trucks spend more gas hauling themselves than the Maxwell uses at peak load.

How well those Maxwells have done their work is shown by a service record of 99.6% perfect—the greatest record ever made by a motor-driven vehicle.

$400 less than any other truck of similar capacity in the world.
